FRED MOORE RETURNS HOME

HAS BEEN PLAYING BALL WITH THE BIRMINGHAM SOUTHERN LEAGUE TEAM.

Fred. Moore, of this city, who has made a record as one of the fastest shortstops in the Southern League during the past few months, returned to the city last night, and will remain here during the balance of the season, provided he does not sign with another team.

Moore, with five other men, has been playing with the Birmingham team, but owing to the treatment of Manager Vaughn of that club, all of them went on a strike a few days since. The members of the club who quit were the best ball players on the team, and as a consequence it has won only one game since their depar-

Moore's version of the trouble was that the club would agree to pay each man a certain amount per month, and then for an alleged violation of the club rules fined him to such an extent that most of the money would return to the club treasury. Six of the men finally became tired of this manner of doing business and refused to play.

QUALITIES OF SAGE.

Round and Liked by All. Nearly all our vegetables and herbs appear originally to have passed through some preliminary stage in the laboratory of the medical herbalist before being admitted to the full honors of the kitchen. The fact is not so strange as it might at first sight appear, and its results have certainly been to the general advantage of mankind, for, though for the most part the old herbalist's prescriptions were of a kind neither to kill nor cure his investigations of the specific qualities of plants were often useful. The ancients of first importance to the physician, Nature Tells 100 and the many traditions concerning it refer almost entirely to this aspect of As Many a Pensacola Reader Knows the plant. "Why should a man die who has sage in his garden?" was one of the maxims of the famous school of health at Salerno. The belief in its virtues survived through the middle ages and was handed down with unimpaired vitality to quite modern times. The writers of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries were full of its praises. "sovereign herb" gradually found its proverb. But the cooks soon began to neys that he ever used. take broader views. They pronounced sage to be equally savory and salutary all the year around and of specia! Y., sole agents for the United States. and peculiar value at the season of Mi-

But this is advancing matters. Even the best of things eatable have had to overcome prejudice and slowly make their way, and in the case of mere concomitants some help from the encouraging hand of fashion has generally been necessary. The rather nauseous brew known as sage tea was so common a domestic medicine to our forefathers that they could not at once accept the herb in the character of a savory adjunct. But we live and learn, and the merits of sage as a modifier of certain rich viands began to be acknowledged. It seemed to have a kind of natural affinity with roast pork, goose and duck and presently became the constant attendant of these dishes. Early in the eighteenth century an acknowledged authority laid it down that "as to geese and ducks, cooks should stuff them with some sage shred fine and a little pepper and salt and the same with a suckling pig."-London Glober

TELEGRAPHERS CONTINUE STRIKE

OPERATORS IN NORTHWEST WILL VOTE ON PROPOSI-

TION TO CALL IT OFF.

By Associated Press. Helena, Mont., Aug. 18.-Fourth Vice-President Dermody, of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, received telegraphic orders last night from President Perham directing that Dermody take a vote of his division as to whether or not the striking operators should return to work and end the strike. Mr. Dermody will take the vote of out-of-town strikers by wire and will report the result to President Perham at St. Paul.

Vote Was Unanimous. Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 18.-The Pacific division of the telegraphers voted unanimously to continue the strike. They were called upon by President Perham to vote on the question. A dispatch from Spokane says the strike vote of that division of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads was announced to-day, showing a hundred men voted to continue the strike, only seven votes being recorded as favoring end of struggle.

Gladstone and Disracli.

An odd scene in the house of commons between Disraeli and his great opponent, Gladstone, is recorded in the diary of Sir M. E. Grant Duff, who relates the story as he heard it:

Gladstone was orationing away as to Disraeli's proceedings and said, "This, sir-this has been the course of the right honorable gentleman and his satellites." He appeared then quite to lose the thread of what he had been saying. He looked at some papers and then seemed to appeal to Goschen, but for a time he was quite lost.

Disraeli looked over a great paper he had in his hand and said very quietly, "You got to satellites," as if he were speaking to a child who was saying his

At last Gladstone appeared to recover himself and said:

"Oh! I am very much obliged to the right honorable gentleman. We will leave the satellites and go on to something else."
